Abstract

Women passed through many problems obstacles and barriers to become an important member in the society. In the past woman did not have any kinds of rights she was isolated neglected and mistreated by man? By the coming of feminism the profile and the image woman have changed completely and from being a poppet in the hands of man she becomes a queen, president, artist and teacher.

The main conclusion drawn from this research is that the feminist efforts were efficient in many ways in which they brought a huge change in the position and the role of woman. They were able to remove the majority if not all the stereo typical pictures and to give her more importance in the society by giving her the political, social and economical right.

Introduction

After a long suffering and discrimination of woman to find limited recognized place in the society she is nowadays playing an important role in society a politician, socialist and economist, those achievement emerged by the coming of feminism which granted women's rights.

THE PERSON NAMED OF THE PARTY O

These researches are studies woman suffering dehumanization and segregation by man. It deals also with the efforts of feminism to change woman's oppression in the entire world and to ask for her equal rights and existence in all the domains.

Concept of Feminism

After a long trip of making the world better by making new rules, inventing new things and changing ancient ideas and in bubble reserve t

thoughts, woman were still struggling every moment and they were still looking for their rights. Feminism has generated an ongoing debate in all over the world and it come to solve women problems and to put on end to the injustice treatment to them. It was the voice of women in times they were not able to speak or to express their feelings and wishes.

Many researchers and scholars used the term feminism and they tried to define and explain it differently. Some of them use it to refer to some historical political movements in USA and Europe. Whereas others refer it to the belief that woman live on injustice life with no rights and no equality Zara Huda Faris explained this ideas, as "women need feminism because these are women who suffer injustice".

Feminism is both an intellectual commitment and a political movement that seeks justice for women and the end of sexism in all forms. There are many kinds of feminism in which sometimes and each one of them gives principles and conditions for giving women her rights.

Liberal feminism aims for individuals to use their own abilities and the democratic process to help women and men to become equal in the eyes of the low and in society. By organizing women in to larger groups that can speak at a higher level, push for legislation and raise awareness of issues, those taking a liberal feminist approach will use the resources and tools available in our society to advocate for change. Inequality also lays heavily in the difference in pay between men and women as a recent study found that simply being a woman was the most serious impediment to women in the workplace. Women working full time earn on average 16.4% less per hour than men working full time. Other figures show women working part\time earn on average 35.3% less per hour than men working full-time. The difference in earnings is created through the gender segregation of occupations and women being discriminated against. Furthermore the lower paid work is usually carried out by the females as there is a gender stereotype for women to take responsibility of women in vocational work and in large firms. Nevertheless, gender has come a long way, and in recent years has dynamically changed as now more women are paid fairly in employment. Women were kept away from learning and education because knowledge would make them question the obligatory power of the conventions and beliefs, which held them in their place; and it, would show them how to achieve their freedom, and might even encourage them to assume leadership. Therefore, Feminist researchers and writers emphasize on the importance of education in woman's life like Marry Wollstonecraft who paved the way to other Feminists to look for equal opportunities for both girls and boys in learning. Educating men and women is a key to economic and social growth and sustainable development in all countries. Raising the education levels and literacy rates of women is one of the most effective investments for increasing female productivity as well as enhancing the well-being of families and children. In some areas where women are becoming more educated than men, the challenge is making better use of women's qualifications. In developing countries, reducing gender inequality in literacy and in primary and secondary education is essential to reducing poverty and accelerating economic development. In all over the world governments started to realize the importance and the necessity of educating females not only for her benefits but also for the development of society in all the domains. They started to encourage parents to let their children especially girls to study to decrease the level of literacy. Recently, the African countries started to help children to inter the school especially children from the rural areas. In sub-Saharan Africa in 2005, the World Bank found that 83.6 girls for every 100 boys were enrolled in primary schools. Primary school enrollment figures do not tell the whole story because the gender gap in higher levels is more dramatic where there is more boys than girls, which results the lack of leadership capacities.

Women and Economics: Women are participating in many fields, including economics in which the female employment rate rising to 20.5% in 2000. By the beginning of the 1890s woman started to participate in political debate and economic challenges. Swelling numbers of women entered the work force in seeking for new equal opportunities and forming a new image and profile of woman her total freedom in addition to equal opportunities in the representation of the political and social events. This modest work tries to give an over view of Feminism and how it developed from being an idea or a belief to becoming a theory with standard goals and principles. The first chapter of this work was theoretical, in which we presented the definition of Feminism in addition to its origin and its different types. It presents also some famous waves of Feminism in which it tackled the famous leaders of each one of them and more importantly, it gives its principles and goals. This chapter speaks also about the suffering of Muslim and Black woman.
